V. Review of the results of this approach

++ 9 years of operations, renewed contracts, no negative feedback even though there is room for improvement in terms of productivity.
++ Good interactions on environmental problems, in particular when there was a landslide which effected a tribe. The company was our first relay in terms of communication.

-- The general manager favoured recruitment within the family to the detriment of families of other tribes (32 employees in 2018), and also sub-contracting within the family.
-- The general manager used his equipment more to compensate failings within the company whereas it was planned to call on other local companies.
-- There has been no regular feedback from the general manager for the shareholders.
-- And especially, since the company was founded, there has been no redistribution of dividends despite good financial results; a choice of the manager.
